Football team improves to 3-1 at first game away from HWF

Steady offense helps Warriors beat Spearfish 35-14

By Aaron Bute and Jake Harris

Varsity football team members defeated the Spearfish Spartans 35-14 Friday at the Black Hills State University stadium in Spearfish.

Junior quarterback Jordan Lakatos carried the team by completing 12 of 17 passes for 236 yards, three touchdowns and had no interceptions.

With senior runningback Justin Kockx going down with an injury, sophomore Tim Marlette came in and ran for 77 yards and a touchdown for the Warriors. The Warriors rushed for 220 yards, while holding the Spartans to 165 yards rushing.

Marlette said the offensive lines opened up the running game Friday.

"The offensive line did a great job blocking, and gave our running backs room to run," Marlette said.

Senior lineman Josh Cunningham said he thought the team has room to improve.

"Overall, I thought we played well, but we need to keep improving as the season goes on," Cunningham said.

The Warriors improved their record to 3-1 with the win, and will travel to Mitchell on Friday to face the Kernels.

Senior Ryan McKnight said he is looking forward to this week's game.

"I am looking forward to this week's game against Mitchell," McKnight said. "We need to have good practices this week, and come out Friday ready to play."

Marching band takes second in Marshall

By Jake Harris and Sam Sohlt

The Warrior Marching Band traveled to Marshall, Minn., on Saturday where they competed against bands in their class including Mitchell, Brookings and Roosevelt.

The Warriors placed second in their division, falling to the Riders by a margin of only .28 of a point on the 100 point scale.

The Warriors also earned caption honors including best frontline, best battery and best color guard at the event.

Freshmen Lydia Sand said the band needs to work on some aspects of their routine if they wish to take first.

"We need to improve on our phasing," Sand said.

New assistant band director Jason Rygg, formerly of Roosevelt High School, had good things to say about the competition.

"Right now I am very pleased with our performance," Rygg said. "Now, we just need to grow musically and visually."

Senior drum major Courtney Heitkamp said the band did their job Saturday.

"We came to entertain the crowd and that is what we did," Heitkamp said.

The Warrior Marching Band will next be in action in Luverne, Minn., Saturday when they compete in the Tri-State field and parade competition.

Maybe it's time for us to get with the program

WHS is the best high school in the city. Not an unusual comment coming from an attendee at the school, and not too convincing. In fact, everyone in the commons could stand up simultaneously and bellow at the top of their lungs, the wide variety of extra curricular activities WHS has to offer, as well.

Hear me...

Ben Matchen

“this school is the best” and it wouldn't do a whole lot except wake up a few tired students.

Every day (if you come to school early enough) you can hear the mighty sound of our band playing outside, or if you look around after school you can see our volleyball players sweating and trying to improve their team and our football coaches and players dumping their hearts and souls into a game so our school can be at the top of the charts.

is the best of the Sioux Falls schools, but members of the public may not (after all this is America, where freedom of choice is top on the priority list).

Or perhaps, if you are not interested in any of these activities, you can simply patiently wait to yell as loud as you can to show that our school cares. Respect is hard to come by these days. If you want our school to continue its illustrious heritage, we all need to get with the program and show the public and the media that our school is still No. 1.

To truly show off our incredible school to everyone, we need to get involved—and not only in class, but in

By Sam Holsen and Kelsey Snyder

The freshman football team was leading the Brookings Bobcats 7-0 Saturday at WHS when the game was called by lightning in the first half.

Scoring the only touchdown in the incomplete game was freshman Adam Heck on an 8-yard touchdown run for the Warriors. Kicking the successful extra point was freshman Jordan Willeison.

The junior varsity girls

The soccer teams will travel west this weekend.

It's deja vu at Emmys in 2005

By Hal Boedeker
The Orlando Sentinel (KRT)

The Emmys on Sunday honored a few newcomers—such as ABC's "Lost" as top drama series—but television's highest prize showed a fondness for repeats.

CBS' "Everybody Loves Raymond" was named best comedy series for its ninth and final season; it had won the same prize two years ago. ABC's "Desperate Housewives," the red-hot serial, had been the heavy favorite for its first season.

"All year long they've been asking us, "Do you think now that your show is going, does that mean the end of the sitcom?" "Raymond" creator Phil Rosenthal said. "I want to say yes. I also think, beyond that, it's the end of laughing."

"Lost" co-creator Damon Lindelof thanked ABC and Emmy voters for believing in the challenging mystery. "We know it can be frustrating," he said. "Bear with us."

The two winners for top actresses in series were major surprises. Felicity Huffman earned the comedy award for "Desperate Housewives" over co-stars Teri Hatcher and Marcia Cross. Huffman thanked her "incomparable" husband, actor William H. Macy.

Patricia Arquette was named top drama actress for NBC's "Medium" in its first season. She saluted volunteer workers in the hurricane-devastated Gulf Coast.

Otherwise, familiar faces kept appearing at the podium. In supporting comedy roles, Doris Roberts won her fourth Emmy as the meddling mother on "Raymond," and Brad Garrett earned his third as her sad-sack son. Garrett joked: "I have to dedicate this to Britney (Spears) and our baby. This is amazing."

Tony Shalhoub earned his second award for comedy actor as the obsessive-compulsive detective on USA's "Monk."

James Spader of ABC's "Boston Legal" picked up his second award as dramatic actor for playing Alan Shore. William Shatner was named best supporting actor in "Boston Legal."

The NOW is printed on paper purchased by the WHS Booster Club.

After 100 years, some things go out of style. But we just keep getting better.
